

Construction Matters

The construction attorneys at Hart King have years of experience representing general contractors, subcontractors, architects, engineers and landscape architects. The complexity of construction projects – large or small – often requires adept legal representation to prevent or resolve problems that arise before, during, and after construction. While nobody anticipates litigation, you must be prepared and protect your business in all areas of civil and administrative matters.

We are members of BICA, CalAPA and have been involved with American General Contractors, Southern California Contractors Association, Engineering Contractors Association and BOMA. We have presented at numerous bid seminars and spoken on panels geared towards the construction and insurance industries on such diverse topics as the fundamentals of CGL coverage for real property claims and the role of Cumis counsel in construction litigation.

What Do We Do?

Because of our experience, we offer competitive rates to help our clients succeed without incurring large legal fees. We represent and counsel clients in the construction industry on a wide spectrum of civil and administrative matters including:

- Contract/Construction Defect Disputes
- CSLB Claims
- Union and Labor/Wage Disputes
- Environmental and Toxic Tort Issues
- Public Works/Audits and Compliance
- Licensing
- Insurance Coverage
- Claim Analysis and Negotiation
- Mechanics' Liens/Stop Notices
- Bid Protests
- Zoning/Subdivision
- Surety Bond/Claims
- Contract Negotiation
- Professional Liability Exposure
